What this film is about:

A boy wants to impress his dad that is a Viking and the boy finds a black dragon.

My review of this film:

I really like this film because I think that the boy is ready to fight a dragon on his own. In the middle and the end it made me cry but I was ok because I didn't like all the Vikings pushing his mouth down. I though the film was very interesting as well as sad and I am glad it had a happy ending.

I thought the fire effects in the film were good and interesting because it made me think what is going to happen next?

My score for this film is: 10/10
